An opportunity for growth

The J.P. Morgan Mozaic II<sup>SM</sup> Index (the Index) utilizes some of the same investment philosophies the largest institutional investors use to seek positive returns in both good and bad market environments. By targeting a volatility level of 4.2%, the Index manages risk while providing the potential to generate consistent returns. Although this can lessen the impact of market downturns, it may also limit upside potential. The Index is founded upon three core principles:

- Broad diversification

The Index utilizes a diversified group of asset classes including equities, fixed income and commodities to provide greater opportunities for growth than a single asset class.

- Greatest momentum

Each month, the Index selects asset classes with the highest returns to capitalize on proven and persistent performance.

- Volatility smoothing

The Index proactively rebalances the selected asset classes each month to provide a more stable return.

J.P. Morgan, one of the world's leading financial services firms, designed the Index to provide a diversified asset allocation with the opportunity to perform in growing and shrinking markets.

The benefit of a broadly diversified approach

A diversified asset selection strategy provides opportunities for growth through both traditional and alternative asset classes. The J.P. Morgan Mozaic II<sup>SM</sup> Index's diversification strategy leverages three essential elements:

- Global opportunities leveraging four of the world's most established markets.
- Multiple asset classes across equities, fixed income and commodities.
- Non-correlated asset classes including commodities such as precious metals and energy provide additional growth opportunities beyond traditional equity and fixed income options.

The Index's 15 asset classes are intended to provide flexibility to adapt to a variety of market conditions and help contribute to the Index's consistent returns.

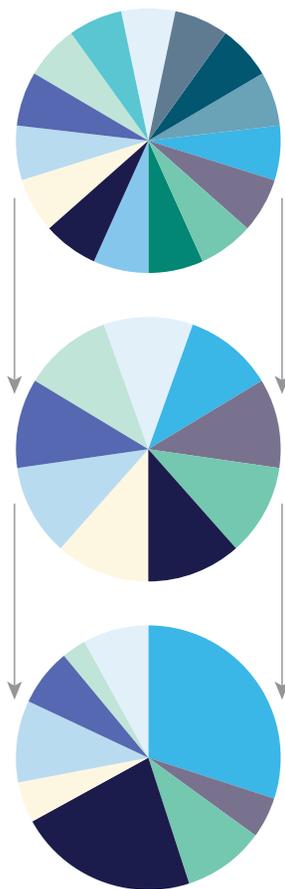

The Index cannot be invested into directly, and past performance is not indicative of future results.

Monthly rebalancing capitalizes on performance

The J.P. Morgan Mozaic II<sup>SM</sup> Index's asset selection is based on the historic tendency for asset classes exhibiting recent returns to be more likely to continue to deliver performance. Each month, the Index chooses nine asset classes exhibiting the highest returns and strategically allocates to each in order to smooth volatility within the Index and create more consistent returns.

Monthly rebalancing generates strong growth opportunities

Step 1 Evaluate

Each month, the Index measures the six-month returns of all 15 available asset classes.

Step 2 Select

The Index then selects nine asset classes with the greatest returns over the previous six months.

Step 3 Weight

Each selected asset class is strategically weighted to provide a more stable return.

“Stop-loss” feature: Asset classes are evaluated, selected and weighted monthly. If on any day the overall index's weekly return is less than -3%, all allocations are removed for one week (the Index is effectively uninvested). After one week, the Index re-establishes allocations based on the monthly selection and weighting described above. This may reduce the risk of potential short-term loss in the Index during a period of significant market distress, but may also cause the Index to miss a potential recovery in the underlying asset classes.

Smoothing volatility to create stable returns

The J.P. Morgan Mozaic II<sup>SM</sup> Index would have provided steady growth through a variety of market environments due in part to a monthly allocation process intended to adapt to market changes and mitigate potential risks. The graph below shows how the J.P. Morgan Mozaic II<sup>SM</sup> Index would have provided consistent positive returns with low volatility.

The J.P. Morgan Mozaic II<sup>SM</sup> Index is an excess return index. Indexes calculated on an excess return basis include calculation elements that reduce index performance. Because of this, an excess return version of an index will have lower performance than a total return version of the same index would, especially in high interest rate environments. Some excess return indexes also deduct a notional charge(s) in calculating index performance. This deduction(s) will reduce the potential positive change in index performance and increase the potential negative change in the index performance.
