² Monthly average indexed interest strategy blends the averages of the three indexes, S&P 500[®], NASDAQ 100[®] and Dow Jones Industrial Average, and ranks the performances to determine the final rate credited to your policy — 50% of the best-performing index, 30% of the second best and 20% from the third best.

³ The “Multiplier” refers to the Indexed Interest Multiplier, a guaranteed 15% increase to the interest crediting rate — after the participation and cap rates are applied — and can result in an index segment interest rate higher than the cap. For example, 10.00% x 1.15 = 11.50%. The Multiplier is applied at the end of each segment maturity, starting with the first segment.

⁴ Annual point-to-point indexed interest strategy compares the initial and ending values of the S&P 500[®] during a 12-month period to determine the percentage of change in an index.

Historical lookback rates as of 1/15/2018; updated annually

The monthly average rates were calculated using a weighted blend (50% of best performing, 30% of second best and 20% of third best) of the actual S&P 500® Index, NASDAQ-100® and Dow Jones Industrial Average (excluding dividends) results over the time periods shown, with a 100% participation rate, an 11% cap rate, 0% floor rate and a 15% Indexed Interest Multiplier.

The annual point-to-point rates were calculated using the actual S&P 500® Index (excluding dividends) results over the time periods shown, with a 100% participation rate, a 9% cap rate, 0% floor rate and a 15% Indexed Interest Multiplier.

Actual participation and cap rates would have differed over the time periods and varied from time to time within those periods. The lookback rates are an indication of respective index performance in the past, have no bearing on future changes in the referenced indexes and are not guaranteed. Actual results may be better or worse than shown.
